One Man's Opinion

By CARL BRIGGS

New Year's Eve when I was a boy meant sitting on the floor in front of a huge Kennedy super–hetrodyne radio, a heavy and mysterious wooden box with a cloth front and a jumble of wires and glass tubes inside that glowed and hummed in the dark. It was the monumental doorway to the land of Jack Armstrong, Little Orphan Annie, and the Green Hornet and I loved it as one in later life loves his pipe or his dog – or perhaps the Lincoln Memorial, which is re–sembled.

When we were old enough, we were allowed to stay up and listen to the stroke of midnight in New York with the mad toot–ing of horns, the ringing of bells, and the throngs of screaming people jamming the streets of Times Square. What a treat that was, and we all felt the excitement and could hardly contain ourselves as 9 p.m. in California and midnight in New York approached.

Today it is difficult to ex–plain all the excitement and one has to ask why the hysteria. Either we are more sophisti–cated than we used to be or we're just growing older, but there seems little reason to celebrate the passage from a December evening into a January morning or the fact that one year has ended and another is about to begin.

If years are to be analyzed and compared, a rather frentic practice at best, one would have to regard 1968 with something less than rejoicing and 1969 with not much more than hope.

1968 was marked with the shock of political assassination, with violence everywhere one looked, and with an unprece–dented presidential retirement under pressures of a univer–sally unpopular war. But it was also the year of Richard Nixon and the return of the Pueblo crew and astronauts orbiting the moon and getting safely back to earth. Not all bad, but not very much that was good either.

We still have our giddy fri–volity in funny hats and it's still as good a time as any to get bombed, but one can't help an occasional glance back over our shoulder as we enter 1969 with the feeling that maybe something is gaining on us, and in looking ahead we see not so much a new dawning but the probability of more of the same.

Hope is the saving ingredient, and to that we must add discreet quantities of determination, temperence, and judgment based on understanding and compromise, because hope by itself is as fragile as a whis–tle in a windstorm. We have to accept the fact that last year's ideas might be as out–dated and useless as super–hetrodyne radios and funny hats in Times Square, and if they are we must learn to discard them and move on to ideas that are compatible with the year that is ahead of us.

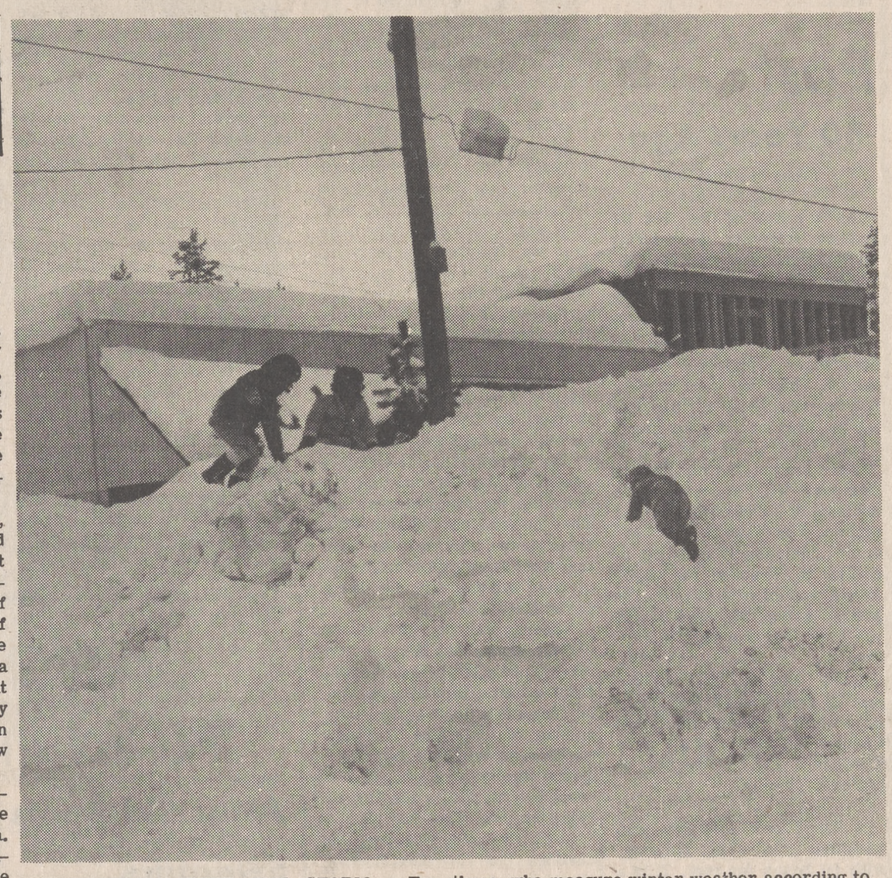
Which are the ideas to keep as constant virtues and future goals? What can be cast aside as good thoughts at the time but of doubtful worth in future frameworks? Where do we get the wisdom to distin–guish between our strengths and what we only think is streng–th and is therefore a weakness? How do we acquire objectivity about something we can't un–derstand – and which seems, every time we glance over our shoulder, to be gaining on us?

Hope is the great eternal de–nominator and is the one valu–able element transmitted from each old year to the following new one since the whole thing began, and without it I suppose man would long abo have said to hell with it.

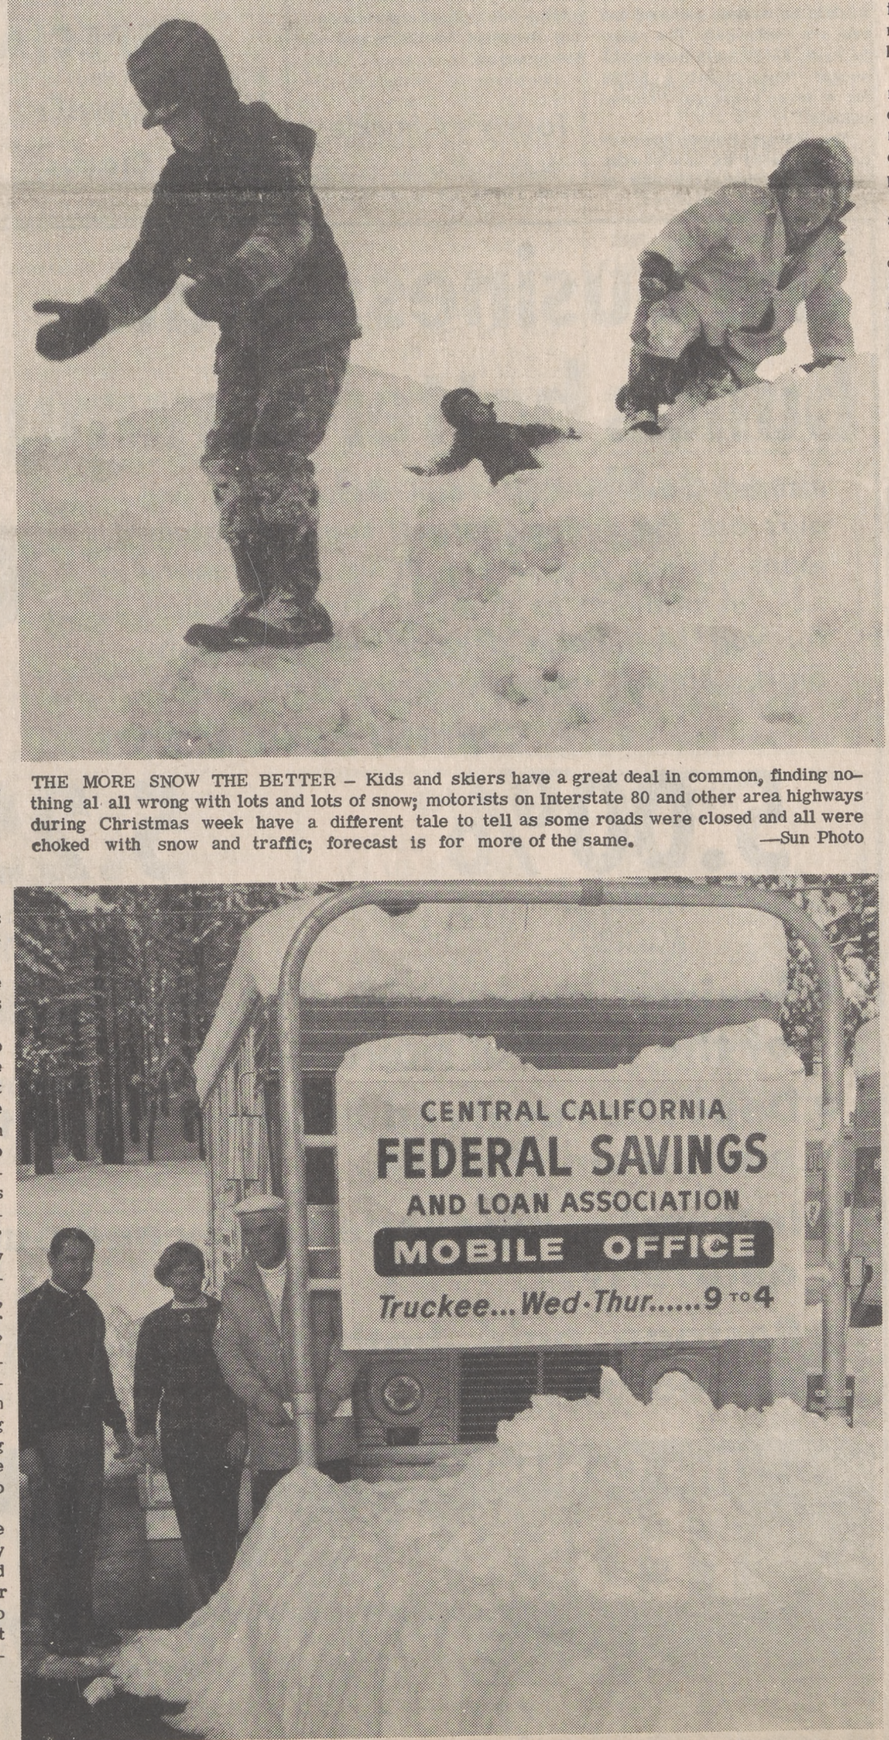
So, here's to hope. Let's take it up like a banner and carry it with us and build on it, and when we are through with our part of it and tired let's try to pass it along to others in at least as good condition as when we re–ceived it.

December Celebration

Mrs. Reg Smart and daugh–ter, Joyce, celebrated their birthdates the first part of Christmas month.



PILED HIGH AFTER THE STORM – For those who measure winter weather according to snow piles left by the plows, predictions are for a heavy one; this pile in Gateway proved an irresistable attraction for kids who played "mountain" and developed their own ski runs down its slopes; snow fall has been described as extremely heavy for December. –Sun Photo



THE MORE SNOW THE BETTER – Kids and skiers have a great deal in common, finding no–thing al all wrong with lots and lots of snow; motorists on Interstate 80 and other area highways during Christmas week have a different tale to tell as some roads were closed and all were choked with snow and traffic; forecast is for more of the same. —Sun Photo

WELCOME TO TRUCKEE – The new mobile installation of Central California Federal Savings & Loan Association dug out its parking place in Gateway following first big storm of the season Thursday; Manager Stu Foster, left, was welcomed to Truckee by Carson White, president of the Truckee–Donner Chamber of Commerce, and Vi White. —Sun Photo

First Big Storm Closes Summit

With predictions of more to come, this area was buffeted by the worst storm of the winter during the Christmas recess when 42 inches of new snow fell at the U.S. Forest Service Sta–tion in Truckee with more than six feet on Donner Summit.

The storm Christmas Day forced closure of Interstate 80 over Donner Summit for nearly 10 hours from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. stranding motorists on both sides of the pass. Some cars and trucks detoured via Quincy, taking the longer way over. Others waited at Truckee and Colfax for the storm to abait. The storm continued, almost steadily from Dec. 23 through 26.

Poor visibility, which at times was zero, caused the clo–sure although heavy snow fell throughout the day.

County and state crews work–ed around the clock and local streets and roads were kept passable, but driveways and back streets were hard to main–tain.

Utility crews, too, were for–ced to abandon their Christmas dinners and kept busy as all facilities were kept operative through the efforts of the rugged workmen.

The snow settled somewhat after the storm and there was a total of 39 inches recorded at the forest service station Fri–day morning.

Total precipitation for the month was 7.66 inches up until Friday at the station.

Six Injured In Headon Freeway Crash In Truckee Canyon

Six people were injured, four of them members of a Nebraska family, in a headon car collis–ion just west of the Nevada state line on Interstate 80 Sat–urday afternoon.

The most seriously injured was believed to be James W. Hasenkamp, 21, San Francisco State College student and driver of an east bound car. His pas–senger, Marbeth Wrcesinsky, 21, Phoenix, Ariz., was also in–jured. Hasenkamp's right foot was severed.

In the second car, driven by Gordon D. Betcher, 36, Held–rege, Neb., the driver suffered major injuries and his wife, Connie, 35, escaped with minor hurts as did one son, Jeffrey, 12. A second son, James W., 6, had both legs broken with severe cuts and bruises.

The California Highway Pa–trol said Hasenkamp was going east and apparently lost control of his car which crossed the center line and struck the Neb–raska vehicle. The pavement was dry.

All of the injured were taken to the Tahoe Forest Hospital in Truckee.

Truck Hits Snow Plow, Causes Jam

The eastbound lane of Inter–state 80 near Truckee, Calif., was closed for more than an hour Friday following an acci–dent which involved a truck, a snowplow and four passenger cars.

A spokesman for the Cali–fornia Highway Patrol said two injuries were reported, but the names of the persons were not known.

The accident occurred 12 miles west of Truckee when an empty cattle truck swerved to miss a slow–moving car and crashed into a snowplow, the patrol said.

Four cars then hit the truck and snowplow.

After the east bound lane was opened traffic was slowed for another two hours, patrolmen said.

Car Plunges Down Bank

A driver of a vehicle that plunged down a 200–foot bank at Incline Village was treated at Washoe Medical Center Fri–day for head injuries.

A spokesman at the hospital said Luis Rosado, 27, of Mill Creek Road, suffered a mild concussion.

The Washoe County Sheriff's Office at Incline Village said the car was discovered at 6:30 this morning.

Deputies said they did not know how long the vehicle had been at the bottom of the em–bankment. The accident was first discovered when an officer saw tracks going off the road.

Rosado works as a bus boy at a Lake Tahoe restaurant, deputies said.

MARTIN BAUMAN

Bauman announced that the local March of Dimes will be in progress during the month of January. Containers for con–tributions are being distributed throughout the county, and let–ters prepared for mailing to residents. A Mothers March is also planned.

Of the funds collected in Pla–cer County, 50 percent will go to support research at the na–tional level, 25 per cent will remain in the county for local use, and 25 per cent will go to the Salk Institute, Bauman stated.

Tahoe-Truckee Downs Quincy

Tahoe Truckee High School registered its sixth 1968 non–conference win against only two losses with a 40–28 basketball triumph over Quincy Friday night. Pioneer League action begins Jan. 3 for Truckee.

Brian Smart and Doug Lind–sey dropped in 10 and 9 points respectively to pace the win–ners. Truckee held a 16–11 halftime advantage, and never trailed after that.

The Truckee junior varsity club also was victorious.

Donner Story To Be Filmed

Roman Polanski will direct "Donner Pass," a dramatiza–tion of one of the most heroic chapters in the annals of the American West.

The production follows Pol–anski's previous Paramount film, "Rosemary's Baby," one of the year's most successful and highly praised productions.

"Donner Pass," which is being written for the screen by Ivan Moffatt, focuses on the tragic struggle of the Donner immigrant party which is caught and blocked on the east side of the Sierra Nevada mountains in Northern California by an early blizzard while en route to the Pacific Coast in 1846.

Set Wildlife Restoration

The State of California will receive $1,917,593 in federal aid for fish and wildlife restor–ation during the current fiscal year. Congressman Harold T. (Bizz) Johnson of the Second, Mountain–valley counties, Dis–trict said apportioned funds are raised by excise taxes on fish–ing and wildlife areas, habitat development, hunting and fish–ing access sites and research.

The dog-catcher comes once a week from Auburn to the North Lake Tahoe area in a pickup truck with a large wire cage and other equipment necessary to catch stray dogs and other animals and pets on the loose.

I was pleasantly surprised when I talked to this man recently and found he has a nice family and loves animals as we do. He said that each week he picks up 12 to 15 dogs which he transports to the pound in Auburn. Most of these pets are claimed by their owners and are released to them after the board is paid and proof is furnished that the pets have had shots and are properly licensed.

I believe that everyone who wants and is able to care for a dog should have one, especially if there are children in the family as they have so much love to give and we can learn so much from them.

We can help the dog-catcher by obeying the rules, such as getting proper shots for our animals, licenses, and most of all by not letting them run loose.

The man said he would be happy to return to Auburn each week with an empty cage.

Okay, the child bride said, it is time to put away the summer things and bring out the winter things we will need. The little one amazes me no end, like when we were married some years ago we lived in a one-room apartment. Some of our wedding presents, like a hand-chrocheted table cloth, were tucked away waiting for just the right time to be used.

That one room and a single closet were the start of hording like has never been seen before. We now live in a large four-bedroom house with a big attic and full basement and we are loaded down with tons of goodies waiting for just the right time to be used—including the hand-crocheted table cloth.

My doll thinks that if we keep these things long enough they will become antiques. We are now on the matched-set-of-dishes kick, which we can get at our local market for stamps. Heaven only knows where we are going to put them.

Incline Village Improvement District Cannot Charge Fire District A Fee

The state attorney general's office said Thursday the Incline Village General Improvement District may not charge the North Lake Tahoe Fire Protection District for flows or maintenance and testing of the fire hydrants in Incline Village water system.

Robert A. Goves, deputy attorney general wrote in a legal opinion "Because both utilities are tax supported by the same taxpayers, we can perceive absolutely no basis upon which either may charge the other for the performance of their repective governmental functions."

The Incline Village General Improvement District had installed about 311 fire hydrants at a cost of $1.8 million and now maintains them. The North Lake Tahoe fire protection districts use the hydrants to protect residents.

The improvement district now wants to charge the fire district for the use and maintenance of the hydrants while at the same time retaining ownership.

Groves pointed out the taxpayer pays for both services. He said the taxpayers would be paying twice for the same thing if the improvement district imposed a charge on the fire district without a reduction of rates in the improvement district.

The possibility that the 18 California border quarantine stations will not only be retained, but modernized to include information and welcoming centers for tourists, as well as providing protection to agriculture against plant disease and damaging insects, is a hopeful sign.

Since the announcement by Richard Lyng, state agriculture director, that the stations would be phased out during the next five years, protests have been loud and frequent, principally from those closely associated with farming who fear that any alternate method of controlling crop damage would be far less effective and more costly.

Most recent objection to Lyng's proposal came from the County Agriculture Commissioners Association. The association unanimously adopted a report urging the state department not to close the stations. They pointed out that the stations were necessary to control the entry into California of bugs and diseases damaging to the state's crops.

Robert Howie, Riverside commissioner and author of the report, told the board of agriculture the stations had a deterrent effect about 10 times the number of violations. He said persons entering the state are aware their vehicles will be searched for plants and did not bring them in.

Chambers of Commerce, including the Truckee-Donner chamber, as well as other organizations, are on record as opposing the closing of the stations and are expected to back a proposal to keep the stations and expand their usefullness by adding information and welcoming bureaus for the benefit of the motorist.

Ledford Cautions Motorists On Winter Road Conditions

"Each year more and more people are attracted to the snow covered mountain playgrounds during the winter months, and many of them become involved in traffic accidents because they haven't taken the proper precautions for the special conditions which prevail," Lt. O.P. Ledford of the California Highway Patrol said this week.

"The two most important things to remember when roads are slick from snow or ice are to drive slower and to leave more space between you and the car ahead. Speeds which are safe under normal conditions can be extremely hazardous in snow and ice, and the distance required to stop is very much greater."

The Patrol official noted that whenever snow or ice conditions warrant it, state highway officials may declare a prima facie speed limit of 25 miles per hour. This can be expected at all times when chains are required.

And, he noted, there are times when even 25 miles an hour will be hazardous and therefore illegal.

"In snow or blizzard storms, when visibility is limited and roads are icy, California's basic speed law prevails. This states that it is illegal to drive at a speed greater than is 'reasonable and prudent' having due regard for weather and visibility," Lt. Ledford said.

"It is also a misdemeanor to drive without installing tire chains in areas where the 'Chains Required' sign has been posted," he said.

"Parking in snow country also presents special problems. Park off the road, so that your vehicle doesn't impede the flow of traffic or interfere with snow clearing equipment. If snow has narrowed the highway so that only traffic lanes are open, don't' park. And don't park on a freeway or where 'no parking' signs are posted.

"An illegally parked vehicle will probably be ticketed, and, if necessary, towed away, and the owner will be liable for the tow charges."

Report Lower Pheasant Kill

The 1968 kill of cock pheasants was 26 percent lower this year than in 1967 on public hunting areas managed by the Department of Fish and Game, the DFG reported today.

The DFG said poor to fair pheasant production, as reflected in pre-season brood counts, is also reflected in the success of the hunters. The total bag this year was 4,601 cocks compared with 6,201 a year ago. The poor production was attributed to the long, dry spring.

The DFG said 26,519 permits were issued to sportsmen on 63,800 acres, a three percent increase in use on comparable areas over last year.

A total of 7,101 permits were issued for three cooperative hunting areas managed by the DFG in 1968. Overall success for the three areas was .21 bird per hunter, compared with .31 in 1967.

Five state wildlife areas were open to pheasant hunting and hunter success averaged .20 birds per hunter, compared with .28 a year ago. The harvest of 2,438 cocks was down 22 per cent from the bag the previous year. The DFG issued 12,390 permits.

Six federal areas were managed by the DFG this year, and produced as average bad of .09 bird per hunter, compared with .12 a year ago. A total of 7,028 permits were issued and 639 birds were taken this year.

The overall average bag on the 14 areas was .17 bird per hunter, compared with .24 a year ago, the DFG said.

Caution In Snow-Shoveling Urged By Medical Group

As snow piles up, so do related problems. Among these every year is the collapse of a number of snow-shovelers.

If you are sure that your're physically fit, go ahead with the snow-shoveling task, the American Medical Association says. But if there is any doubt, get the job done some other way. Hire someone, or use power equipment.

It is much less expensive to employ these alternatives than to risk health impairment or death, AMA emphasizes.

Even if you are physically fit, it is safer to use a small shovel, filling it only partly. If possible, it also is better to push the snow rather than lift it.

By thus lightening the load, it's explained, it is not necessary to tense the diaphragm and abdominal muscles. There consequently is no significant increase in pressure within the chest cavity or increase in circulatory demand within the heart walls.

Frequently, AMA says, the problem with snow-shoveling is aggravation of an existing heart condition. When such a condition exists, breathing cold air while under physical strain may cause a spasm of small arteries serving the heart.

This usually can be avoided by wearing a cold weather mask or covering the face with several layers of a knit scarf. This permits warming of inhaled air before it reaches the lungs.

Even for the physically fit, the motto should be: Easy does it. Especially when there is a lot of snow and a large area to be cleared, do the job in stages, resting periodically.

Finally, AMA cautions, falls also are a hazard for the snow-shoveler. Footwear that is not likely to slip on icy surfaces, amd making sure of firm footing before moving snow are important.

INAUGURAL SERVICES – Reopening of the Alpine Chapel in Alpine Meadows Lodge is announced by Alan Ewen, right, president of Alpine Meadows, and his assistant, Jim Schutt; Rev. The bug's bug
It doesn't even have a species to call its own. It's in a class all by itself. The Ariens 300/III Snowmobile. Here's how to spot it. Look for a tough white shell with orange and black stripes and a squashy vinyl seat. Very brave. Inhabits snow covered regions with swarms of families and adventurers. Slaloms up and down hills. Darts along at speeds of 40 m.p.h. plus. Tracks have been observed in remote places where others fear to go. Seldom sleeps. Often roams at night. Sees in the dark. Sustains its 297 c.c. engine on a sparse diet. Goes all day on one feeding. Exterminate those do nothing winters. Bug-out to your Ariens dealer and get the snowmobile bug's bug! IT'S A MUSTANG – Bill Anderson has switched mustangs as winter piles the snow high at television's Ponderosa Ranch at Incline. Instead of horses he has snowmobiles, one of which is very appropriately named. Visitors are not only bussed around the ranch, but can take a turn of their own on the snowmobiles around a mile-long course. —Sun Photo.

"GIDDYAP OL' BOY!" – Royce Anderson, son of Bill and Joyce Anderson foregoes skiing this week to take a ride in the Ponderosa Ranch antique horsedrawn sleigh. The sleigh's plush covered seat cushions sudden bumps as Royce ride's over Incline's deep snows at the ranch location. —Sun Photo.

State Division Of Highways Advises On Road Conditions

All motorists are urgently advised by Division of Highway officials to be alert to icy road conditions and reduce driving speed in early morning hours when the combination of moisture and freezing temperatures produce frost.

Distrct Highway Engineer W. L. Warren reports that even though all available sanding-salting trucks are in use over many miles of raods, there are numerous out-of-control mishaps on state highways.

On just one structure, the McConnell Overcrossing on the South Sacramento freeway, Route 99, four or five cars were reported out of control last week. The bridge had been sanded five times.

The Highway Division patrols all highways and freeways at night in cold weather and road crews are summoned on the job immediately when the temperature dips.

Nevertheless, it is imperative that motorists unfamiliar with cold weather driving be especially alert to potential areas of risk when weather is wet.

LAKE ECHOES

By BETHEL

Sandra White and Paul Franklin were united in marriage in an afternoon wedding December 20 at St. Francis of Assisi Catholic Church at Incline Village. Father Francis Cohan performed the ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her Father, Wally White.

For her wedding Sandra chose a long white satin gown with long sleeves and high neckline and a floor length veil and carried a bouquet of white carnations and lily of the valley.

Carol Scheiber of Reno, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a rose tinted gown with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The bride's mother wore a lime green two-piece suit and a carnation corsage. A coffee colored knit coat dress was worn by the grooms mother with a white carnation corsage.

Best man was Michael Gray of Vallejo, an ATO fraternity brother of the groom.

A reception was held at the Racquet Club after which the couple left for a honeymoon to San Simeon and Southern California. The bride wore a light blue knit coat dress with navy blue accessories for her going away costume. They will reside temorarily at Fort Ord while awaiting his further orders.

Out of town guests were Mrs. D. Franklin of La Habra, the groom's grandmother. She was accompanied by Ethel Linsdell of Covina. Paul's grandfather and wife, the Ben Franklins, of Joshua Tree, and grandparents, the Paul Mallys, of Carson City, the bride's grandmother, Fannie Chiara of Battle Mountain, aunt, Rose Falippini of Battle Mountain, and Uncle, Glenn Bream of Pennsylvania were also present.

Sierra Skiing

By VI & CARSON WHITE

Snow conditions couldn't have been better after Christmas, fresh deep powder caused huge smiles on faces of those who could handle it, and where slopes were packed, skiers there too were having a fabulous time.

Cold temperatures kept the snow in great shape. The six-hour closing of Interstate 80 on Christmas Day was all forgotten after the first run.

January 17-26 is the week set aside as the 5th annual National Ski Week, one that will have just all kinds of activities for all types of skiers. Carnivals, special races and movies at ski resorts and many ski shops will be holding sales during that time.

Four to six feet blankets the slopes now!

Happy New Year!

Greater Care To Be Used In Landscape Preservation

Trees growing on lands purchased as rights of way for freeway construction, but which sometimes die from lack of care, will be preserved to augment future roadside landscaping under a new plan recently developed by the State Department of Public Works.

Recent instructions from Public Works Director James A. Moe, call upon the California Division of Highways to protect specimen trees at such locations during the period that begins when the Division buys the property and ends when construction is completed.

Moe said that many of the trees grow far enough from the roadbed to remain forever in place without constituting a traffic hazard.

"Instead," he said, "they constitute a natural resource and this statewide conservation project will enhance not only future highways but communities as well."

After each property purchase, the trees will be examined and those valuable specimens compatible with highway planting will be identified and saved.

When a sufficient number are located within a limited area, a local landscaping firm or nursery will be hired to care for them. Where only a few are involved, the same job will be done by landscaping maintenance men employed by the California Division of Highways.

In addition to preserving trees in their natural setting, the new instructions provide for uprooting palm, olive, and some types of evergreen trees compatible to storage in a tree bank.

The variation will permit salvaging valuable plants even though they originally grew in the actual path construction will follow.

"There presently is no way of estimating the amount of future savings," Moe said, "but the plan should provide substantial funds for construction which previously were designated for landscaping. At the same time, it will guarantee a natural aesthetic setting for our highway system."

The program is already underwy in Sacramento. There, some trees on rights of way earmarked for the future Interstate 5 and Route 50 freeways remain in place.

The three locations are 34th to 65th Streets, 43rd to Broadway and 5th to 21st Streets.

Watch For Bikes

Lt. O. P. Ledford of the California Highway Patrol had words of advice today for all children who received shiny new bicycles for Christmas.

"Learn the rules of the road right now, during Christmas vacation, while you have time for some things not in school books," the Patrol commander advised.

He said that bicyclists must ride as near the right side of the roadway as practicable, and that it is illegal to allow anyone to ride on the handlebars.

He urged that bicycle riders be careful when passing standing vehicles and when being passed by automobiles on the roadway.

Every bike operated after dark must have a headlamp and a red reflector on the rear visible from 300 feet.

Handlebars must not be above the level of the operator's shoulders, Lt. Ledford said.

Make Preparations Now For Boating Season

"It is important for western boatmen to take advantage of the winter months to prepare for next season's boating," Rear Admiral Chester R. Bender, the Coast Guard's top officer in the Pacific, said today.

The Admiral stressed that high schools have long realized the importance of 'Driver's Education' and that this type of safety instruction, applied to boating, is available from Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotillas throughout the West.

Over one million new boaters are expected next year, and beginners are the ones most likely to experience accidents. But even old pros should be able to find helpful ideas in pamphlets such as "Pleasure Craft (CG-290)", "Ventilation Systems (CG-395)", and "Overloading and Improper Loading" (a leaflet).

These publications are available through the Twelfth Coast Guard District Public Information Office, 630 Sansome St., San Francisco 94126.

"Don't take the 'it won't happen to me' attitude," Admiral Bender said. "We see too many examples of the tragic results. Be prepared for the boating season by learning correct procedures – it could save your life!"

Safety Coordinator Hits Accident Rate

"There is absolutely no excuse for the inordinately high traffic toll on our highways and streets during the Christmas holiday just ended," State Transportation Safety Coordinator John Berke said today.

Berke decried the tragic loss of 25 lives during the 30–hour period from Tuesday at 6 p.m. until midnight Christmas.

"Christmas is meant to be a joyous occasion, one to be spent in happiness.

"Yet 25 California families will remember this Christmas–not with joy, but with sadness, at the loss of a loved one.

"Just a little more caution, a little more attention to driving details, could have prevented this needless loss of life."

Berke stated that weather conditions were extremely bad over Christmas, especially in northern California, "and this no doubt had a bearing on the high number of deaths by auto accidents."

"In spite of hourly warnings and pleas by safety councils, local police and the California Highway Patrol, the record–breaking number of deaths still occurred to mar this happiest of holidays," Berke reiterated.

The safety coordinator explained that statisticians of the Highway Patrol and the Division of Highways usually predict about 12 or 13 auto deaths on a normal weekday and 16 or 17 on Saturday or Sunday.

"Using these estimates," he explained, "there shouldn't have been more than 19 or 20 deaths during the 30–hour Christmas holiday period. And there just was not enough additional traffic over this period to justify such a high figure this year."

By comparison, Berke pointed out that last year's four–day Christmas holiday accounted for 89 traffic deaths, an average of about 22 per day – "and this was over a weekend which ordinarily is high, anyway."

Berke repeated previous warnings that a massive crackdown is in store for drinking drivers during the upcoming New Year's holiday.

"Californians will not stand for a repitition of the tragic deaths of this week," he concluded.

Boat Registration Applications In Mail

Robert C. Walker, Director of Harbors and Watercraft, announced today that applications for more than 410,000 boat registration renewals had been placed in the United States Mail, and that owners of properly registered boats could expect to receive the notices in the next few days.

Walker urged boat owners to take immediate action to mail their notices with the $3.00 fee to the Department of Harbors and Watercraft in Sacramento. He said that boat owners could also take their renewal notices in person to any of the Department's 440 volunteer registration agents. These agents, mostly boat dealers and marine suppliers, are located in boating centers and are often open on weekends and holidays. Owners may also renew their registrations at any office of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Walker said that boat owners who do not receive renewal notices should write the Department directly, giving the boat registration (CF) number and the date it was registered.

'Job Game' Not Easy In Complex Society

"Jobs" is the name of the game.

But the California Employment Service, with its 100-plus offices spread the length of California, isn't in business strictly to match existing positions with available job-seekers.

Its purpose is more complex, of greater significance to the economic and social development of the state and the nation, according to Peter Weinberger, director, California Department of Employment.

"More and more, we're searching for job openings which don't exist and trying to fill them with applicants who-on the surface-don't appear to qualify," he explanins.

State employment offices, which helped some .2 million Californians find work last year, are now zeroing in on the disadvantaged of our society-individuals who have just about given up hope of finding a decent job.

As well as the "too old" and "too young," these include members of minority races and cultures, the educationally deprived, and the physically and mentally scarred.

The direction is prompted, in part, by today's somewhat paradoxical surplus of skill-demanding jobs and unskilled workers.

"To bring the two together, we're teaching skills and job-savvy to potential employes, and, at the same time, we're courting employers, helping them reassess their work force needs," explains Weinberger.

Two hundred specialists within the Department of Employment now devote full time to finding or shaping jobs for the traditionally "hardcore unemployable."

It's a challenge requiring dramatic changes in attitude on the part of employers, workers and department staff as well, says Brad Walker, youthful supervisor of the statewide program.

"Employers are reevaluating their job-entry requirements. Applicants are breaking a bad habit here, adding a new skill there. And we department people, in our role as broker, are learning not to stereotype either group," Walker comments.

Weinberger explains that the 200 specialists are merely a nucleus of the department's personnel presently working with the hard-core unemployed.

"In our offices located in minority communities, where job-seekers badly outnumber job offers, practically the whole staff is concentrating on the problem," he says.

During the past two years, Department of Employment offices throughout the state have been adding the job specialists. Frequently, personnel for these programs have been recruited from the neighborhoods they serve, giving them the needed empathy for the individuals they seek to place.

"We no longer wait for the disadvantaged to come to us. We go to them," says Weinberger, "Through our programs, we are dealing with people on a very personal level, counseling them, motivating them, discovering and polishing their best skills and doing everything that must be done to make them employable.

"We accept their dilemma," he concludes, "as our responsibility."

Finds 'Old' Pyramid In New World

A former Nevadan, who is now one of the world's leading archaeologists, has just announced the finding of what may be the oldest Pyramid in the new world in southeastern Mexico.

Dr. Robert Heizer is Professor of Anthropology at the University of California. His early interest in archaeology developed during his youth in Lovelock Nevada, where his father was a mining engineer. Early in his career he excavated a number of important sites in this state, including Lovelock Cave and Humboldt Cave.

In 1965 he was awarded an honorary D. Sc. by the University of Nevada. He served on an advisory committee to the Desert Research Institute to establish its program in Anthropological Research.

Dr. Heizer reports that carbon dating techniques show that the pyramid, shaped somewhat like an inverted gelatin mold, is unlike any pyramid in middle America, and carbon-dating techniques indicate that it was constructed about 800 years before Christ. The existence of the Pyramid had been known for some time, but its significance was discovered only recently.

The University of California team had thought the clay found probably concealed an ordinary pyramid. The dense jungle of La Venta caused them to underestimate its size, and for several years it was ignored in favor of other structures at the ceremonial center.

The fluted cone stands in a grand ceremonial center on the island of La Venta, between the Mexican states of Veracruz and Tabasco. For more than 30 years scientists have been studying the island's former civilization, which included an agricultural fertility religion under a priesthood. Colossal stone heads, jade offerings, altars, and other artifacts have been found there.

But until the latest expedition's findings about the size, shape and age of the pyramid, no one fully appreciated the skill, artistry, and energy of the society of grain farmers who flourished on the plain.

The Pyramid is smaller than the rectangular pyramids of the other known Mexican cultures, but it is as large as the interior of Memorial Stadium at Berkeley — a mass of about 3.5 million cubic feet.

The Pyramid has a diameter of 420 feet and is 100 feet tall.

But it is the shape, rather than the size, which most interests the archaeologists. Heizer believes the structure is a conscious imitation of the cinder cones clustering around the base of several volcanoes about 40 miles west of La Venta. These outcroppings were formed fairly recently, and Heizer says it can be assumed that the builders of the Pyramid must have witnessed the dramatic process of their formation.

The general proportions of diameter and height, as well as the slope of the sides of the cones, are duplicated by the La Venta pyramid, and the erosional gullies on some of the cinder cones are very much like the man-made depressions of the pyramid.

The archaeologists hope to continue digging at La Venta, and to discover what the Pyramid contains.

Chappie To Aid State's Agency Goal

Assemblyman Eugene Chappie, R-Cool, said he will work for the State of California alone to finance the California portion of a proposed bi-state agency (California and Nevada) to regulate development within the Tahoe Basin.

Noting that El Dorado County supervisors on the California side have objected to furnishing agency funds, Chappie cautioned that if the state provides financing, supervisors must agree to adequate state representation on the agency.

"The counties have the majority of the votes now and that gives them adequate opportunity to control the destiny of the basin. If the state is going to finance the project entirely, in fairness to the state's taxpayers there should be responsible representation from the state on the agency," Chappie said.

He said other issues over the agency's membership and powers, raised by El Dorado supervisors, should be resolved so congressional ratification of the bi-state compact can take place soon.

"In my opinion El Dorado County is taking a business-like approach to the problem and I want to assure the county that I shall make every effort to cooperate with Congressman (Harold T.) Johnson (D-Roseville) and departments of the state so that we can bring about an early solution to this very serious problem," Chappie said.

Incline Sets Water Rate

Inequalities in the charge for monthly water service to Incline Village apartment, condominia and multiple home dweller will be adjusted in January with the new rate to be reflected in the bills that arrive in February, Wally White, Incline improvement district manager said today.

A single family residence will be charged the present $7 per month rate, based on a unit fixture count system that will allow a kitchen sink, dishwasher, clothes washer and 2 1/2 baths. The $7 will be a minimum rate.

Multiple housing units that have collectively gone through one metered connection have been paying about $2 per month for water on a prorated share basis. Their rate will be boosted to the $7 minimum charge.

White said the rates now charged did not provide sufficient revenue to pay for water costs.

He said the metered water rate will be 25 cents per 1,000 gallons.

The district will also levy a $250 per family unit connection charge and have a meter and meter box installation charge of a minimum $101.50 for 3/4 inch service. These charges are made to cover costs, White said.

Sewage rates will be $4 per family unit with a $250 connection charge. White said plans to connect all houses below Tahoe Boulevard were being studied for a program to be launched in 1969.

White said the sewage export program, now under way, will result in a sewage service rate hike when the works are completed.

Renew Boat Registration

SACRAMENTO – Robert C. Walker, director of harbors and watercraft, announced applications for more than 410,000 boat registration renewals had been placed in the United States mail, and that owners of properly registered boats could expect to receive the notices in the next few days.

Boaters in the Placer County area may renew their registration locally at Homewood Marina, Highway 89, Homewood. No area has been designated for El Dorado County.

Trophy Award Program For State's Fishermen

Ever wondered how that trophy fish you caught stacked up with other California anglers' catches?

You'll be able to get the answer fast under a new Trophy Award Program announced today by William P. Elser, president of the California Fish and Game Commission.

Elser, who was instrumental in setting up the new program to be conducted by the Commission, said it is designed to accumulate size records and to provide recognition to sportsmen who take outstanding specimens of certain fish and game species in California and adjacent ocean waters.

The commission also will develop lists of the top 10 specimens for each of 44 fish and game categories listed. For the sake of simplicity and uniformity, weight will be the only factor in comparing entries for both fish and game.

Each year, the sportsman taking the largest example, by weight, in each major category will be awarded a certificate signed by the president of the Fish and Game Commission.

Perpetual records of the 10 largest specimens in each category will be maintained by the Fish and Game Commission office in Sacramento, so sportsmen will be able to compare the size of their trophies with trophy-sized specimens taken by others.

Periodic announcements will be made of outstanding trophies and the names of the sportsmen who take them. Entries will be accepted by the commission office for specimens taken on or after January 1, 1969.

Minimum weight requirements have been established for each species in order to limit the number of entries and insure trophy-size fish and game entries.

Rules include a stipulation that all fish and game entered must have been legally taken in California, except that fish taken on the sport fishing grounds around the Los Coronados Island and landed in California are eligible.

Entries must be submitted to the commission office within 30 days of the date on which they were taken. Scales used for weighing fish must be certified by the State Bureau of Weights and Measures, and two persons who are nonrelatives must witness the weighing and sign their names to verify the weight. A single picture of the animal or fish and the contestant must be submitted to the commission, and the photographs become the property of the commission.

The species and minimum qualifying weights include: blacktail deer (160), mule deer (200), elk (700), antelope (130), bear (400), mountain lion (120) in the rifle category; and blacktail deer (140), mule deer (175), and bear (250) in the archery category.

Trout include: rainbow (10), cutthroat (5), golden (4), brown (12), eastern brook (4), and lake (mackinaw) (18).

Ocean fish include: barracuda (12), white seabass (35), lingcod (25), albacore and bluefun tuna (30), yellowfin funa (50), yellowtail (30), black seabass (150), marlin, all species (175), and blue shark (125).

Among the anadromous and miscellaneous inland game fish are: kokanee salmon (4), king salmon (30), silver salmon (15), steelhead (12), striped bass (35), and sturgeon (100).

The warmwater gamefish list included; largemouth bass (12), smallmouth bass (5), catfish, all species (22), orangemouth corvina (23), carp (15).

A complete listing of the species and qualifying weights may be obtained, along with the complete regulations for the Trophy Award Program, from the Fish and Game Commission, 1416 Ninth Street, Sacramento, (95814), or from offices of the Department of Fish and Game.

No Change In Sewering Expected

No change is expected in California state officials' decision that Tahoe City Public Utility District (TCPUD) will sewer D.L. Bliss State Park north of Emerald Bay, Russell Culp said today.

Culp, general manager of South Tahoe Public Utility District (STPUD), said a decision reached Thursday by TCPUD that it will hold up work on sewage exports works on the west shore until TCPUD learns if federal aid is forthcoming probably will not change the state's position on who will sewer Bliss park.

TCPUD officials said they will award no more contracts for sewage export projects until the Economic Development Administration notifies TCPUD about federal aid for the projects.

The deadline of Jan. 1, 1970, for completing sewer export projects in the Tahoe Basin appears less plausible than ever.

STPUD officials contend if they could begin work now, Bliss park could be sewered by the deadline. STPUD officials say TCPUD cannot meet the deadline.

Culp said STPUD is willing to serve Bliss park, although the area "is not attractive from the income standpoint."

When Michigan State upset Notre Dame this fall it marked the 10th victory in 14 games for a Duffy Daugherty-coached team against the Fighting Irish. The 1966 game ended in a memorable 10-10 tie.

APPEARING WEEKENDS – Lovely Laine Kazan bows in Harrah's Reno Headliner Room on the weekends of Jan. 3–4, Jan. 10–11 and Jan. 17–18. Comedian Sammy Shore will be in her show. Bill Cosby returns to Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room Jan. 8.

New Public Relations Chief At Sahara-Tahoe

Pete Peters has been promoted to public relation director at Hotel Sahara–Tahoe, announced Richard D. Schofield, vice president and general manager.

Peters replaces Tony Atchley who has been named executive assistant manager at Hotel Thunderbird in Las Vegas. Both Sahara–Tahoe and the Thunderbird are properties of a Del E. Webb Corp. subsidiary.

Atchley leaves after two years as head of the department which entails publicity, promotion and advertising for Northern Nevada's largest resort hotel–casino.

Peters, 33, assumed his new duties after serving as Atchley's assistant for the past 11 months.

A native of Midvale, Utah, Peters came to Sahara–Tahoe after 15 years as an award–winning sports writer on several of the nation's biggest newspapers.

He was sports editor of the Las Vegas Review–Journal prior to his moving to South Lake Tahoe last January. Peters and Atchley were co–workers on the Review–Journal from 1960–1965.

Voted Nevada's Best Sports Columnist of 1962 and 1964, Peters also authored the state's top sports story in 1962 and was runnerup in 1963.

Peters has covered such sports spectacles as the Kentucky Derby, The Rose Bowl game, Olympic Trials, championship boxing matches, Sahara Invitational golf tournaments, tournaments of champions and Grand Prixs.

He worked his way through college on the sports desk of the Los Angeles Times, was sports editor of the Culver City Star–News, turf editor for the Phoenix Gazette, associate sports editor of the Las Vegas Review–Journal for four years and later sports editor.

Peters was news and sports editor of the 24th Infantry Division newspaper while serving in Munich, Germany, in 1958–60. He was among the first graduating class in 1953 at Mira Costa High School in Manhattan Beach, Calif.

Marijuana Case Jail Term Given

Superior Court Judge Vernon Stoll sentenced Timothy David Shoup, 22, of Grass Valley to 60 days in county jail for furnishing marijuana. Shoup will serve three years probation.

Stoll ordered Shoup, indicted on the charge by the Nevada County Grand Jury, to live during the first year of probation with his father in Hawaii, following a recommendation of the probation department.

Shoup's attorney, Frank Francis of Nevada City, asked the judge to place the youth on probation without a jail sentence.

In other action Friday, Stoll ordered Thomas Raymond Barney, 19, of Grass Valley committed to the medical facility near Vacaville for a 90–day observation period. Barney was convicted of selling LSD.

Sentencing for four others who have pleaded guilty to narcotics charges was set for next Jan. 17.

'HIPPO!' – The giant "river horses" of South Africa's Kruger National Park are the objects of "Mutual of Omaha's Wild Kingdom" crew, in a project designed to relocate the park's hippopotamus population to an area where it will be safe from poachers, in "Hippo!" the seventh season premiere of the NBC Television Network color series Sunday, Jan. 5 (6:30 to 7 p.m. NYT).

Sunday Premiere Set For Wildlife TV Series

An exciting chase of hippopotamuses by a giant bulldozer and helicopter views of the wildlife of South Africa's Kruger National Park will be among the highlights of "Hippo!" the season's premiere episode of "Mutual of Omaha's Wild Kingdom" color series on the NBC Television Network, Channels 3 and 4, Sunday, Jan. 5.

Marlin Perkins, Jim Fowler and Stan Brock travel to Kruger to join the park's Rangers in a project designed to relocate the hippo population to an area where they will be safe from poachers. Since normal capture methods utilizing nets or pits are useless against the strong and cautious beasts, the Rangers have developed their own unique system for the job.

Perkins scouts the park aboard a helicopter and spots elephant, hyena, giraffe, zebra and other animals until he finally finds a pool with hippo in it. Perkins radios the pool's location and the rest of the capture team converges on the spot along with the Rangers' key element in their capture system – a bulldozer to be used in a way its designers never dreamed of.

The 'dozer is one piece of equipment big enough to argue with an angry hippo, and rugged enough to move through the deep mud-bottomed pools where the hippos take refuge. The machine is moved into water, stampeding the animals with its size and noise.

The hippos are surprisingly fast for their great size, but with some frantic driving, the bulldozer stays with them, for one of the wildest sequences ever photographed, as Perkins, Fowler, Brock and the 'dozer go after hippo.

Punctuality is the art of guessing how late the other guy will be.

Hope Troupe Entertaining U.S. Soldiers

NBC-TV star Bob Hope and his Vietnam – bound holiday troupe are entertaining U.S. servicemen in Tokyo hospitals this week during their Asian tour which will include performances in Korea, Okinawa, Guam, Thailand and Vietnam.

The troupe, which jetted out of Los Angeles International Airport, Dec. 14, included 21 performers headed by Ann-Margaret, Linda Bennet, Rosey Grier, the new Miss World (Penelope Plummer of Australia), comdey trampolinist Dick Albers, the Honey Ltd. vocal quartet and the 12 girls of the Golddiggers singing and dancing group. A crowd estimated at 1,000 was on hand to bid the party farewell.

Filmed highlights of the shows will be colorcast on the NBC Television Network Thursday, Jan. 16, when "Chrysler Presents the Bob Hope Christmas Show."

Stead Campus Institute Reports Student Growth

RENO – Student enrollment is up at the Nevada Technical Institute located on the Stead campus of the University of Nevada.

Course changes in engineering and law enforcement programs and a new degree program in business technology are credited with much of the increase.

A total of 165 students are enrolled at the Institute. Figured against an average credit load of 16 semester credits per student, this is equivalent to 132 full-time students.

Engineering and law enforcement programs have been revamped this year to offer introductions to fields of professional study. The new program, business technology, is oriented to lower management positions, salesmanship and certain aspects of records and account work.

Of the courses offered, engineering design has the most students, 52.

This includes 39 first-year students and 13 second-year students.

Electronics technology is the next most popular field with 28 first-year students and seven second-year students. Law enforcement has 16 first-year students and seven second-year students.

In its first year, business technology drew 21 students. Another 13 students are involved in the radiologic technology certificate program.

Non-credit courses are presently being offered at the Institute in basic electronics and dynamics.

Dynamics is a part of the "engineer – in – training program for the State Highway Department. Twenty-one students are involved in these two courses.

Reduce Ski Thefts With Better Equipment Care

NEW YORK – "It's surprising more skis aren't stolen, a ski operator commented in SKI Magazine. "Every day I watch skiers drop their skis in a snowbank while they go in for a hot chocolate. And then I see them leave their skis unlocked in ski racks on top of their cars in the parking lot while they're off somewhere else."

The temptation to steal skis has been rising steadily over the past 15 to 20 years, as the average skier now spends about five times as much money for ski equipment.

Although area operators, associations of ski areas and local police have instituted better means of apprehending ski thieves (some areas offer cash rewards), there are steps the skier can take to help prevent theft of his equipment.

SKI recommends the following: The most important step is to mark skis with distinctive identification. Skis are less likely to be stolen if they have large name plates, insignia, stripes or other identifing marks. Polyethelene bases may also be marked with felt pens.

SKI also notes that many skis are taken by mistake by owners of similar ones and deposited elsewhere on the racks. Often, however, owners leave the area in the meantime, believing their skis have been stolen. SKI therefore suggests including the home town with the owner's name so that the area can help locate him.

Although many skiers separate their skis on different racks, this isn't a positive assurance against theft, and many areas now have ski lockers and coin operated racks.

Skiers are also advised to note the serial number and characteristics of their skis so that they can relay the description to the ski area office if theft occurs. The area can then alert the security staff and local police immediately, and begin checking cars leaving the area.

Catastrophic 1967

NEW YORK—The year 1967 may have set a new quantitative record for catastrophic events in the United States, according to the Insurance Information Institute. Thirty-four storms, fires or riots left in their wake insured damage of more than a million dollars each. The total cost to insurance companies was about $325 million.
